Dear Dr. Gaume:

Thank you for your letter of 2 December in response to my request for information on aerospace medical spinoffs.

In response to your question, yes, our publication date is flexible. The article probably will not be published before late this year or early next year. If you would like, I will send you the exact publication date as soon as the article is scheduled.

In the meantime, if you should happen to run across any additional materials, studies, or reports dealing with your special interests in weightlessness or any other area of aerospace research which has benefitted medicine, I would appreciate your sending them to me.

Again, thank you for your help.

Sincerely yours,

George B. Ryan
